Dennis Christensen

Dennis Christensen was raised on the family farm in Bear River City, Utah, growing corn, hay and wheat as well as raising broilers, pigs and cattle for slaughter. After high school he went to USU to study Business Administration and Animal Science. He served a two-year mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Antwerp Belgium. Upon graduating from USU with Bachelor's and a Master's degree he continued working alongside his father in the animal feed industry and farming. In 1990 he moved to the Tremonton area with his small family and purchased a small farm to be closer to home.

He began his career with Intermountain Farmers Association (IFA) in 1999 working in outside sales consulting with dairy and beef customers. His current focus is on training employees on IFA feeds and the importance of a balanced diet for their customers' livestock. He continues to help the cow/calf and feedlot operations with their businesses.

Dennis and his wife Becky have five children and 14 grandchildren. They enjoy being with family, participating in outdoor adventures with family and friends in their spare time.
